Our Company

Founded in 1999, Fourth Dimension Technologies, Inc. is a professional services firm supporting federal, state, and local governments, private for-profit and non-profit clients. We equip students with certified IT job skills that are in high demand today, while meeting challenges facing industries, regardless of the markets they service. We train adults ranging from career changers to college graduates in less time and cost than traditional learning. Skills are developed considering the student's personal life demands without compromising the needs of the industries they will serve.
